MASONS HONOR BROTHER

Amid Sea of Flowers, "Dad" Ravenscroft Is Laid to Rest

OLD PASTOR SPEAKS

Masonic Orders Form Cortege in Full Uniform

The hearts of all Glendale Masonry were saddened today when several hundred members of the Knights Templar, Royal Arch and Blue Lodge and many, many members of the Eastern Star, White Shrine and friends gathered to pay their tribute of respect to the memory of Charles Henry Ravenscroft, whose funeral services were held at 2 o'clock at the First Methodist church. He had won a host of friends by his genial disposition and sunny smile and was affectionately known by everyone as "Dad" Ravenscroft.

In accordance with the wishes of Mr. Ravenscroft, the services were in charge of Rev. W. B. Collins, who had been his friend for over thirty years. He had also requested that O. E. Von Oven, prelate of Glendale commandery, and Charles Peckham, past eminent commander, take charge of the Knights Templar services at the church.

The members of the local Knights Templar lodge, of which Rev. V. Hogue is commander; Royal Arch, with E. A. Collins as high priest; the Blue Lodge, with H. W. Strong as worshipful master, and the new lodge, with John Cleland as worshipful master, assembled at Masonic temple at 1 o'clock and marched in a body in full Templar uniforms and Masonic regalia to the church, where the body of Mr. Ravenscroft in his Templar uniform had been taken at 12 o'clock. His special request that Mr. Phillips of the Jewel City Undertaking Co. take charge of him when he passed away was complied with. A square and compass, emblem of Masonry, and the Templars' sword and plumed cap were on top of the casket.

Special police were at the church and also along the line of march, followed by the cortege, which, after leaving the church, went west on Wilson avenue to Brand boulevard and south to Forest Lawn Memorial park, where burial took place in the Masonic plot, with the Knights Templar rites.

Never have more beautiful floral tributes been seen than those which were tendered in expressions of the love and esteem in which this brother was held by all who had known him in Masonic and other circles. Gardens and conservatories had been rifled of their choicest blooms to honor him. Large pieces were the gifts of organizations, the commandery sending a very beautiful floral cross and crown. Unity lodge sent a square and compass in flowers and from the Glen Eyrie chapter of the Eastern Star a beautiful star in the colors of the star points.

Besides the tributes of organizations there were innumerable personal remembrances which will do much to comfort those near and dear to the dead, to whom these flowers will be a convincing proof that their sorrow is sincerely shared by the community.

The custodian of Masonic temple, in which capacity he had served for a number of years, always had a smile for everyone. He was a member of all of the Masonic bodies in Glendale and had filled the office of Tyler or sentinel in each of them. What more wonderful tribute could be given than that so unconsciously spoken by his brothers and comrades in Masonry who expressed their esteem of him by saying: "He was a true Mason and not only took the obligations of the order but lived up to them. We shall certainly miss 'Dad'."

Mr. Ravenscroft came to Glendale ten years ago from New Albany, Ind. He was born in New Albany on May 31, 1855, and became a Master Mason there in 1889, later taking the degrees of Royal Arch and Knight Templar. He was also a member of the Eastern Star until he left the east, when he took out his demit. After coming to Glendale, Mr. Ravenscroft was a cordially engaged in the Masonic work that he did not transfer to the Glen Eyrie chapter.

A wife, daughter, Mrs. Lawrence Ellis of San Jose, and a grandson, Charles Ellis, survive Mr. Ravenscroft. The ideals of the Knight Templar organization were instilled by Mr. Ravenscroft in his grandson, Charles, in whom he took great pride, and whose desire it was to become a member of this Masonic organization.

D. & L. Theatre Thursday, February 8.

Beautiful souvenir programs are now being printed with a reproduction of the Glendale Peacock on the front cover, and it is expected that these will be sent by the Shriners to many friends in the east, thereby putting Glendale on the Shrine map.

came as a shock to everyone. He had attended the meeting of the lodge two weeks ago Monday, when he had a severe cold. It became worse and the latter part of that week a telegram was sent to his wife, who was visiting her daughter at San Jose. Mr. Ravenscroft was taken to the Glendale Research hospital a week ago Saturday, critically ill. Complications set in which affected his heart.

LET'S STOP ROCKING THE BOAT

[Reprinted by Request from the Glendale Daily Press of February 2]

The mania for spending the taxpayers' money is increasing. A citizen or a city official gets an idea and immediately turns to the coffers of the city for aid in putting it over. This is probably true of a great many cities, but during the past year Glendale has experienced a regular orgy of spending.

The Glendale Press realizes that it is essential to spend money for improvements and additions made necessary by our rapid growth, and it will recommend and work for all such expenditures. We must, for example, recognize the absolute necessity of furnishing proper school facilities and must not be niggardly in this direction. We also realize that Glendale as a city should have parks. A proposition is now being presented to buy a plot of ground on Broadway for a civic center, at a cost around $300,000, including equipment, the argument being that this is the last available site for such purpose and if not secured now it will be lost forever. But is this true? We think not. Ever since the city voted to transfer the high school to its new site at Broadway and Verdugo road, the present location has been the subject of discussion for a civic center. When the high school trustees were approached in regard to the matter they indicated a willingness to sell the site as it stands to the city only—mark that—with all its permanent buildings, for a sum not much in excess of $300,000, this sum to be immediately reinvested for school purposes. It is admitted that this plan must continue to be used for another year for school purposes, but after that it would be available for a civic center. That it would make an ideal one both in its central location and setting. It could not be duplicated for twice the sum suggested, but it belongs to the citizens of Glendale and would be merely converted from one use to another for the public benefit; in other words, a transfer of assets from one pocket to another. There would be no legal obstacles in the way of obtaining it. The law gives school trustees authority to sell school property when it seems expedient to do so.

A large amount of the taxpayers' money has been spent lately for parks and we are reliably informed that city council members are contemplating further expenditures along this line. We see no occasion for Glendale to provide parks other than resting places, for have we not Griffith park right at our door? It is conceded to be one of the finest parks in the country and numbers 3751 acres.

We should also take into account the present assets of the city along this line. At the present time Glendale has eleven elementary schools with campuses aggregating 44 1-3 acres, two high schools, including the new one building, with grounds totalling 35 acres, or a total of 79 1-3 acres, and the prospective bond issue for grade schools includes a provision for the purchase of twelve acres more, making a grand total of 91 1-3 acres of school land within the confines of Glendale. School authorities estimate that about 30 per cent of this acreage is covered with buildings, leaving approximately 60 acres available for playground purposes, and there is a growing disposition on the part of the community to use these assets day and night, Saturdays and Sundays.

But these are not our only resources. According to data furnished by the city hall, the city owns Glendale Verdugo park of 184 acres; it has recently purchased on San Fernando road near Grand View, 33 acres; its Patterson Avenue park contains about ten acres; it has a small site on East Maple, used for a reservoir to serve the Tropic district; an acre west of the Southern Pacific details of the plan with Superintendent White. Chief of Police Col. Fraser, appeared before the board to propose the employment of the older boys in the city schools as traffic officers at dangerous corners before and after school. The board took no action preferring to hold the matter over for further consideration.

Superintendent White reported the situation with regard to the bond election and the petitions to be circulated in the northwest in the city schools as traffic officers at dangerous corners before and after school. The board took no action preferring to hold the matter over for further consideration.

Mr. White stated he would today see the county surveyor about maps and descriptions of school precincts to be used in connection with the calling of the coming bond election. As soon as the maps and descriptions are ready they will be turned over to the county counsel who will prepare the papers for the election call. The board expressed the hope it could begin advertising the elections next week.

The teachers' committee arranged to meet Thursday at 10 a. m. at board headquarters to select the two grade teachers and the kindergarten teacher whose employment was authorized by the board.

FOOTHILLS FOR SCHOOL BOND ISSUE

Association Goes on Record Back of Board of Education

WANTS P. E. SERVICE

Organization Requests More Street Improvements From City

Endorsement of school bonds, requests for street improvement and additional service on the Pacific Electric were the matters taken up for discussion at the regular meeting of the Glendale Foothill Improvement Association held Tuesday night at the Grand View school with President Alexander Mitchell in charge.

O. M. Newby, member of the school committee, and also of the committee of fifteen, was present and reported on the recent school survey. On motion, the association went on record in favor of the school bonds.

The library committee reported a formal opening would be given as soon as the equipment and books could be installed. The entertainment committee, of which Mrs. C. E. Ellipsman is chairman, are planning a Washington party to be given February 20. A detailed announcement will be made later. The deplorable condition of streets in the district, and particularly in the vicinity of the Grand View school was discussed and as a result the executive committee was asked to take the matter up with the street department and the city council.

The Pacific Electric was the theme of the next discussion. The secretary of the association was instructed to write the company asking for overhead shelters for the Pacific Avenue and Sentereta stations, as there are no accommodations for waiting passengers at these points. The company is also to be asked to add a car to the present 8:12 Burbank train, which carries the school children, it being already overcrowded before reaching Western avenue.

LASKY OUTFIT SHOOTS CITY HALL

Eastiders had the pleasure this morning of seeing the Lasky company "shoot the tar" out of the city hall on East Broadway.

At an early hour the tribe from the Lasky studio began to arrive and when 9 o'clock rolled out the whole outfit of cops, coppers, actors, actresses, extras, sues, human beings, etc., were on the scene—or rather in the scene, and what the Eastiders "seen" was worth seeing.

The morning was spent in shooting and when the smoke cleared away at noon the building was intact, having stood the bombardment in grand style. Whether or not Old Glory will still be flying when the trumpet sounds tonight, remains to be "scene."

Members of the Verdugo Hills.

ALL ARE CALLED

"Broken Chains" and Comedy, "Mud and Sand" to Be Given

This evening will be Boy Scout night at the Glendale theater, according to word received this morning by William A. Howe, lessee and owner.

"We want every Boy Scout in the Verdugo Hills district to be our guests tonight," stated Mr. Howe, "and to make it interesting we will only run one show, but that will be a big one."

"In addition to our regular program consisting of the Goldwyn special, 'Broken Chains' and the hilarious comedy, 'Mud and Sand,' we have procured the special four-reel Boy Scout feature, 'Knights of the Square Table,' and in addition to our regular musical program we have arranged for the Boy Scout orchestra to play some of the latest musical hits," he added.

"Knights of the Square Table," is the latest and best Boy Scout feature to be filmed. It is the most beautiful, attractive and powerful dramatic story of Scouting that has ever been screened up to date.

"It is a great picture," declared Mr. Howe, "and every parent in Glendale as well as the boys should see it. All Boy Scouts will be admitted free and if they accompany their parents they may all sit together."

Boy Scouts of the Verdugo Hills district were guests Tuesday afternoon of Glendale postoffice. The Scouts gathered by the scores in front of the postoffice long before the time set.

Starting in at the administration office, where they viewed letters received from every civilized country in the world for the Harrower laboratory the Scouts were taken all through the postoffice and told and shown how the whole thing works.

One of the most interesting things to the Scouts was the intricate cancelling machine. This machine has the capacity of cancelling more than 600 letters a minute.

SECOND RADIO CONCERT OF GLENDALIANS

Times-Glendale Program to Be Held Starting at Eight o'Clock

Glendale artists will take the air again tonight.

Better strap on the headgear promptly at 8 o'clock for there's a treat in store for you. If you have never heard one of those Times-Glendale programs it will pay you to let everything else "slide" between 8 and 9:30 o'clock, for a program has been arranged that will be, if possible, a little above the average. If you have heard one of these concerts it might be well for you to take a full-sized dose of the same medicine.

The last Glendale program put on by the Times radio was the talk of the city. Hundreds of radio music lovers enjoyed every number on the program for each selection was a gem. But the last program had nothing on the concert that will be given tonight.

Listen who's here:
Helen E. MacMullin, contralto; Mrs. MacMullin is known and loved wirelessly and otherwise throughout this western country. She will render "The Enchanted Glade," by Lois Barker; "Rose in the Bud," by Foster; and "Invictus," by Hahn, to piano and harp accompaniment.

Enona Hopkins, harpist, will play "Song Without Words," by Oerthur; "Impromptu" by the same composer, and several selections of her own composition.

Philip T. Hillman, basso profundo, accompanied by Roberta Young, will sing "Rocked in the Cradle of the Deep," by Knight; "When the Bell of the Lighthouse Rings Ding Dong!" by Solman; "Down in the Deep Let Me Sleep When I Die," by Petrie, and "The Big Bass Viol" by Bohannon.

Other artists who will appear are Bessie Mock, who will render several dramatic numbers on the steel guitar; Virginia Freeman, who will contribute several soprano selections; Evelyn M. S. Labadie, reader of note; Alex "Sandy" Macdougall, bapline, in several selected numbers, and Ann Kavanaugh, reader, who will give a talk on O. Henry.

MUSEUM

Saturday morning, February 10, there will be another delightful and interesting program for the children at the Southwest Museum, Los Angeles, at 11 o'clock.

Martine Sherrell and Gladys Baumgartner, pianists, from the Page School for Girls, will give a group of solos. This will be followed by an unusually good talk from Mrs. Henrietta E. Kapps, of Barker Bros., who will speak on "The Home Beautiful." Mrs. Kapps will tell her story in such manner as to be both interesting and instructive to boys and girls alike. An educational film through the courtesy of the chamber of commerce will conclude the program.

The children of the public are invited.

Next Sunday afternoon, February 11, commencing at 3 o'clock, the Southwest Museum will be addressed by Mr. Frederick E. Maude, who will speak on the "Havasupai Indians," illustrating his lecture with his own beautifully colored lantern slides. Mr. Maude knows his subject well, having spent many years in active research work among the Indians.

The lecture will be preceded by a musical program through the courtesy of Miss Hilda Brockway, pianist, whose program will include the following numbers: "Dance of the Elves" (Grieg); "Hungarian March" (Kowalski); Prelude E. Minor (Mendelssohn), and others.

The public is cordially invited. Those wishing to attend should come early.

K. C. PLANS BIG BENEFIT PARTY

A benefit is being planned by committees of the various organizations of the Holy Family Catholic Church to be given in the Knights of Columbus Hall at 330 East Lomita, Saturday evening, February 10.

The afternoon will be free to the children, when a special entertainment by some of the children will be given, and there will be a fish pond and many novelties.

For the fathers, mothers and friends, there will be afternoon cards, bridge, 500 and whist, for which beautiful prizes will be given. A luncheon will be served, and there will be a sale of cooked food and other interesting features.

The evening will be devoted to dancing and cards, music to be furnished by the Emma Orchestra. Grand Knight Harry Girard has appointed a committee which will have charge of the dancing and this insures a good time for all participants.

Miss Henrietta Smith, president of the Y. L. L. has named a committee which will have charge of the card tables and she promises beautiful prizes. Miss Sharpe is making a special feature of children's entertainment. Mrs. Zimmer, Mrs. Morgan, Mrs. Vogel, of the Altar Fidelity, will have charge of cooked food and other novel booths.

Miss Virginia Huntley, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. G. Huntley, has decided to begin her college course at Pomona and will leave very soon to enter the spring term.

YORK MAY WED IN GLAMIS CASTLE

It is probable the approaching marriage of the Duke of York, second son of the British rulers, to Lady Elizabeth Bowes-Lyon, daughter of the Earl of Strathmore, will take place in Glamis Castle, Scottish family seat of the Strathmores. The castle is called one of the most remarkable in Great Britain, rich in historical connections, especially in relation to "Macbeth."

BRANCH LIBRARY SECURES BOOKS OF REFERENCE

BY CHARLES H. CUSHING
Librarian

Many valuable reference books have recently been placed on the shelves of the branch library.

The California Codes—Civil, Political and Penal, and the consolidated supplement to the same are authorities on the matter of law.

"The Income Tax Procedure for 1923" is a large volume which goes into every phase of this question.

"Spanish and Indian Place Names of California," by Miss Sanchez, supplies information often sought especially by strangers in the state.

"Winston's Cumulative Looseleaf Encyclopedia," in ten volumes, is so arranged that the new leaves which are published once a year can be inserted in the volumes in their proper alphabetical order.

Among the works of travel of special interest are: "Inca Land," by Bingham; "The Holy Land and Syria," by Frank Carpenter, and "Hail Columbia," by W. L. George.

In biography the "Autobiography of Margot Asquith," is of unusual interest, being not only the story of an interesting personality but giving intimate glimpses of English history during a period of great significance.

Mrs. James T. Field gives glimpses of some of the famous American authors whom she entertained in her home. "Quentin Roosevelt," a Sketch with Letters, by his brother, Kermit, will appeal to all on account of Quentin's heroic part in the world war.

"Young Boswell," by C. B. Tinker, throws sidelights on the early days of the great biographer.

"The Science of Business Building," in two volumes, by Sheldon, gives valuable help in the matter of salesmanship, advertising and other business matters. Other books on business are: "Getting the Most Out of Business," by Lewis, and "How to Get the Job You Want," by Fletcher.

Other books of non-fiction are: "Practical Book of Furnishing the Small House," which includes period furniture; "My Life and Some Letters," by Mrs. Patrick Campbell; "Charles Dickens, How to Know Him," by Burton; "Atlantic Prose and Poetry," edited by Thomas and Paul; "Perfect Behavior," by Stewart; a delightfully humorous parody on etiquette; "The Science of Business Building," by Emily Burbank; "Steel," by C. M. Walker; "West Men from the East and from the West," by Rihbany; "Neighbors Henceforth," by Owen Wister; "Neither Here nor There," by Oliver Herford; "My Philosophy and My Religion," by Trine; "Robert J. Burdette, His Message," by Clara B. Burdette, and "The Importance of Bird Life," by Hartley.

DID YOU EVER STOP TO THINK—

By E. R. WAITE,
Secretary, Shawnee, Oklahoma,
Board of Commerce

THAT prosperity will never stay in a community that has no faith in its business interests or where the business interests have no faith in their city. They must have faith in each other in order to succeed.

THAT sometime some people say that they will have to go to some other city to better their condition. That is nonsense. All the opportunity in the world exists in their own home city.

THAT opportunity won't hunt them, they must hunt opportunity. If they hunt long enough they will find it.

THAT you should boost your city all the while.

THAT you should talk about the many advantages your city offers. You won't have to stretch the truth. The truth about your city is enough.

THAT you should not magnify the very few disadvantages your city may have, they can be corrected.

THAT you should boost your neighbor and give a hearty welcome to the stranger.

THAT you should boost all your county as well as your city.

THAT in union there is strength. If divided into factions you weaken.

THAT as a community you owe not only a duty to your community, but to the smaller neighboring communities.

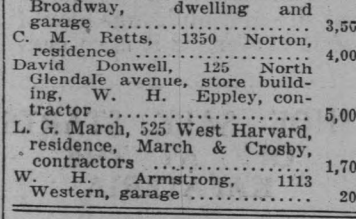

THAT it is a community of interests that will make your section more prosperous.

THAT it is this same community of interests that will make your city a greater city.

HAHN TRACT TO BE SUBDIVIDED

Edwards and Wilcey Co.
Completes Plans for Cutting Up Fifty Acres

It was made known yesterday that plans have been completed by the Edwards and Wilcey company to subdivide the Hahn property which is said to be the last remaining piece of low-priced acreage in Glendale.

The Hahn property was recently purchased by the Los Angeles and Glendale realty firm after the piece had remained intact as acreage for 50 years. Time and again the original owners refused handsome offers to sell. For sentimental reasons they let the acreage remain unimproved while Glendale built up all around them.

It remained for the Edwards and Wilcey company to offer a proposition that was acceptable and scarcely was the deal closed than graders were busy cutting through the streets.

Although the exact consideration has not been made known, it is said that the deal involved a big sum of money for the 90 odd acres comprising the tract. However, it is declared that the purchase price was away below similar Glendale acreage.

The new tract will be known as Kenilworth Park and the first unit which will be immediately marketed is bounded by Kenilworth avenue on the east, Glenwood road on the north and the Glendale-Burbank car line on the south.

An extensive program of improvements has already been inaugurated, including cement sidewalks, curbs, crushed rock streets, gas, water and electricity. The lots which will be 50 feet wide will be sold at $1500 and up, it is said.

Section 2: That a cement gutter be constructed along the roadway of Western Avenue from the northwesterly extension of the northwesterly line of Tenth Street to the northwesterly extension of the northwesterly line of Tenth Street, including all intersecting streets and alleys, and extending into Tenth Street as shown on Map No. 602. Said gutters shall be two (2) feet in width and five (5) inches in thickness and shall be constructed in accordance with Map No. 602, Profile No. 765-A and in accordance with specifications for said work adopted by the Council of the City of Glendale and known as Specifications No. 31.

About 50 were present, including as honor guest Mrs. Genevieve Smith, past district deputy president, and inside guardian of the grand assembly of California. The regular work of the evening was performed and standing committees were appointed as follows: Finance—Mrs. Bertie Smith, Mrs. Anna Murdock, Mr. Groutage. Reception—Mrs. Evelyn Hall, Mrs. Hannah Anderson, Mrs. Lydia Laforce.

R. T. W. CLASS HOLDS REGULAR MEETING

The regular meeting and social afternoon for the members of the R. T. W. class of the First Baptist church, of which Mrs. Jennie B. Dosssee is teacher, was held yesterday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Grover Adams, 516 Pioneer drive. Devotionals were in charge of Mrs. Ray Bentley. The new president, Mrs. J. Roger Bentley, was in charge of the business session and appointed the following committee chairman: Mrs. Park Arnold, social; Mrs. C. S. Jewberry, working committee; Mrs. Walter Stamps, calling; Mrs. Fred Abbey, program; Mrs. J. R. Headlee, flower; Mrs. A. J. Maxwell, publicity.

The program for the afternoon included a piano duet, "Hearts and Flowers," by Mrs. Ray Bentley and Mrs. Thomas Hosking; vocal solo, "Love's Coronation," by Mrs. H. W. Carter, accompanied by Mrs. Bernice Wonnacott; pianologue, "In the Usual Way," by Mrs. C. E. Madison of Long Beach, who also gave several delightful readings.

At the close of the program little Miss Bobbie Morrow and June Perkins, in Valentine costumes, entered pulling a gaily decorated wagon on which was a large heart-shaped Valentine box. Strings with hearts were attached to this and when they were pulled the box was found to contain apples and popcorn balls for each guest. There were thirty-seven members present and other guests were Mrs. F. E. Bacon and Mrs. C. E. Madison of Long Beach. The hostesses for the afternoon were Mrs. C. S. Jewberry, Mrs. Perkins, Mrs. Albert Marple and Mrs. Robert Morrow.

FIVE CENT FARE FOR WASHINGTON D. C. URGED

WASHINGTON, Feb. 7.—The cause of the great American strap-hanger is to be chaplained anew in congress.

Cities that have been trying ever since the war to get car fares back to something like the pre-war level are watching with much interest the fight that is being waged in congress to bring back five cent fare in the District of Columbia.

This fight, Senator McKellar, Tennessee, said today, is just beginning, in spite of the setback he and other advocates of lower fares sustained the other day. McKellar announced he would soon present two measures upon which congress will be put on record as to whether it stands with the great army of automobile-less strap-hangers, or with the street car companies and other public utilities corporations. These measures are:

1.—Providing that the street car companies in the District of Columbia shall not be allowed to charge a rate of fare higher than that fixed in their original charters, namely, 5 cents, with free transfers.

2.—Abolishing the public utilities commission in the district, which now fixes the rates of fare.

Operate for the People "If that does not work," said McKellar, "I would favor government ownership and operation of the street railway lines. I am not in favor of public ownership as a general thing, but rather than see the people of the District or of any city in the country saddled with the burden of extra carfare, when there is no real reason for it, I would favor that the lines be operated for and in the benefit of the public."

Carfare in Washington is 8 cents. That means an added burden of $1.50 a month for every regular patron of the lines, McKellar said. That sum is not burdensome on many, but in the case of the head of a family who is sending two children to high school—as thousands of Washingtonians are—it amounts to $4.50 a month out of a family income which is usually just big enough to cover actual needs. The bigger the family, the worse the burden.

Public ownership advocates in the senate and house are prepared to help McKellar all they can. They all realize that the situation in Washington, the capital city, is significant, because congress deals with it, by reason of the fact that Washington, has no city government chosen by its people, who are voteless. What congress does about carfare here is likely to affect the efforts in other communities to obtain adequate service at a reasonable fare, they believe.

When the senate the other day side-stepped a direct vote on the question, as raised by McKellar, the votes of five senators who go out of office March 4 turned the scale. If they had voted the other way, the senate would have been given a chance to decide the fare question on its merits.

The capital city has two traction companies, one of which is so prosperous that its officials do not wish to accept a recent fare increase. The other, however, is so poor it is constantly clamoring for more fare. Efforts to get them to merge have thus far proven unavailing. So also have efforts to get the "poor" company to apply to its needs some of the profits of the electric light company, which it controls.

With the increase in population incident to the war, the situation has grown steadily worse, and congress has been urged to take a hand. Now McKellar declares the fight will go on until the low fare advocates win, either by getting the fares reduced outright, or by putting the lines into control of the government.

GLENDALD DAILY PRESS PLAN FOR CIVIC CENTER APPROVED BY READERS

Plan for Furnishing Glendale With a Civic Center Through the Sale of the Present High School Site to the City, Wins Approval

The editorial of Friday, "Let's Stop Rocking the Boat," pointing to the economical use of the city's resources in civic center material, created a deep impression on the city and the minds of taxpayers who are seeking to conserve the finances of the city against further exploitation.

For the benefit of those who did not have an opportunity to study the plan in full it is being repeated in today's issue of the Glendale Daily Press.

Mr. Editor: I want to thank you for your article in last Friday's issue, as to "Rocking the Boat." I would change the title to "Please Stop the Work of Appropriating the City Resources from the Taxpayers by Taxation to Help Schemers Line Their Pockets at Public Expense." Their schemes have been doubling our taxes for several years. I protest against the last and the present councils allowing themselves to be wheedled into the real estate business, buying the Patterson park at $14,000, the 33 acres at $66,000 and the Verdugo park at $70,000, with yearly appropriations, making about $150,000.

We did not elect them for such business. What right had they to do it? Where do they get the authority? Must we not displace them and elect a new board that will care properly for our interests and have business sense and conscience sufficient to keep it out of such transactions?

As to your suggestion about civic center and Griffith park I wish to concur. REV. A. B. SMART, B. D.

Mrs. W. L. Jencks, 409 North Maryland avenue: "If the present high school site and buildings were not so badly needed for grammar school purposes I believe it would be a good idea to use it for a civic center, but it seems that the latter can wait a while. The schools are getting to be so crowded and the children need more accommodations."

Mrs. J. D. Rathbun, 423 West Colorado street: "The present high school site and buildings seems to be the most centrally located ground that would be available for a civic center and I think that its use for this purpose, after the high school moves into its new buildings, is a very good idea."

Mrs. W. W. Stofft, 457 Stocker street: "I believe that it is a very good idea that the present high school site and buildings be used for a civic center. I do not know what better use could be made of it. Glendale needs a civic center and I believe the suggestion is a good one."

Mrs. Joseph Wagner, 415 West Myrtle street: "I believe that the present high school site and buildings would be the most centrally located site for a civic center. It would also appear to be practical, as the buildings could be used to house some of the city departments."

Mrs. J. E. Wimmer, 122 West Chestnut street: "I believe that the present high school site and buildings should be used for something that would be of value to the city, when the high school moves into its new quarters, providing it is not needed for school purposes."

Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Rudel, 315 West Vine street: "We believe that it would be a wonderful location for a civic center at the present high school site, with the buildings there. We are heartily in favor of the idea, which seems to us to be very practical."

Mrs. Emil Johnson, 463 Myrtle street: "It seems to me that the present high school site and buildings would be a splendid location for a civic center, as it is so centrally located."

LAST BIG HOTEL MEET IS CALLED FOR TONIGHT

The last big "put the hotel over" meeting necessary before the proposed hotel can be constructed at the corner of Glendale avenue and Broadway, will be held at 7:30 o'clock tonight at the Glendale city hall.

The purpose of this meeting is three fold—to inform the subscribers and all others interested just how things stand in connection with the hotel, to consider the proposition of the purchase of the land and to take over the Ambrosini hotel company, thereby forming an entirely new organization for the carrying on of the affairs of this hotel.

It is hoped that every person who has subscribed to this hotel proposition will be present at this meeting, in addition to any others who are interested in this hotel. The inside workings of this hotel project will be revealed, so that all may see the result of the months' of hard work on the part of the members of the hotel committee of the Glendale Advancement association.

That the proposition looks brighter than it ever did before is the statement of everyone who has anything to do with the project. In fact, the hotel is practically assured, they say. All that remains to be done is the one grand organized effort.

It is definitely known that an offer to construct a hotel to cost $400,000 or less, providing the lot is clear, has been made by one of the most prominent architects in Los Angeles. A letter to this effect will be read at the meeting tonight.

A teacher received the following letter from the mother of one of her pupils: "Dear Ma'am—Please don't give Charlie any more home work. That sum about how long would it take a man to walk caused his father to lose three days' work. Then when he'd walked it you marked the sum wrong."

SHOE SALE STARTS OFF AT THE KAFATERIA

The big shoe sale at the Kafateria Shoe Store, 126 North Brand, started off this morning with a big crowd on hand early. Extra clerks were required to handle the trade, and Manager Cushman says the sale bids fair to be the biggest drawing card of the season. One customer remarked this morning: "There is no sale like it ever put on in this section," and as an evidence of her belief she carried away two pairs of shoes.

The stock is very large and prices have been disregarded—shoes that formerly sold for more than double the price are being sold at $2. The sale will continue till Saturday night, and it is expected that the Kafateria Shoe Store will have record business. Mr. Cushman, the genial manager, says: "Don't take our word for it, but come in and see for yourself the big shoe values we are offering. It will pay you to buy shoes for several months to come and for the whole family at this sale," says Mr. Cushman. "Don't fail to visit the store this week; you are always welcome even if you do not buy."

When Mrs. Hudson began to have troubles with her car and she determined to investigate thoroughly and scientifically, she called upon experts of every class. Having interviewed biologists, historians and economists, she thought it unnecessary to show the car to the mechanics, "for," she stated, "everybody has trouble lately, and it's due to nothing in the world but the use of raw materials in the factories. The government ought to look into it."

The two women were discussing the spectacular existence of a wealthy man. "Where is his home?" asked Mrs. Morel. "Home? He hasn't any. When they get as rich as that they have no more home instinct than milk cans."

SHRINE SHOWS TO HAVE BIG AUDIENCE

Apparent That Capacity Houses Are Due for Day and Night, Thursday

With the cast of clever people who are to take part in the Shrine Club's show, "Smile Again," at the T. D. & L. Theatre tomorrow afternoon and evening, there will no doubt be an "S. R. O." sign posted. Practically the entire house has been sold out for the evening performance. There are some good seats left for the afternoon and those who can are advised to attend the matinee performance.

Peggy Garretson of Glendale will play the part of "Mizzi," a little French maid, who finds her way into the heart of "Bob," played by Nathan Dial. Miss Garretson is a very clever young woman and has appeared many times before Glendale audiences.

Paul Shoaf, who has an important role in the play, is a professional and has played on the Keith circuit. He served overseas during the war and was wounded in action twice. He has done considerable character work as a black face comedian and is a favorite wherever he appears.

Laura Sutton of Glendale, who has a very pleasing and mellow voice, is to play the part of "Catherine." She is also a professional, and has appeared with a stock company in the east, coming to Glendale recently from Chicago.

Bill Sykes of Hollywood is playing the part of Duane, a college football man. The interest is held throughout by the love plot between Duane and Yvonne, played by Marie Oliver. Mr. Sykes played with Al Jolson in Chicago and New York before the war and has also appeared in pictures in the east and in Hollywood. Mr. Sykes is an overseas man and was decorated several times while in France. He was gassed while in active service.

Louisa Howard, who will appear as Liza, Queen Elizabeth Brown, in "Smile Again," will supply costumes of her own creation for the act.

DISTINGUISHED SCULPTOR IS HONORED

Phimister Proctor Is Guest at Luncheon at Seymour Thomas Home

LA CRESCENTA, Feb. 7.—Phimister Proctor, the noted sculptor, afforded the inspiration for a charmingly appointed luncheon and reception at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Seymour Thomas, Monday afternoon. Mr. Proctor recently returned from Portland, Oregon, where he completed the great monument to Theodore Roosevelt. He has been residing at Palo Alto, but his many friends in Southern California are trying to induce him to make Los Angeles his permanent home.

MISS MIMI CRISMAN OF "SMILE AGAIN" CHORUS

Miss Mimi Crisman is one of the attractive members of the chorus of "Smile Again." She has a special talent for singing and dancing and has appeared in big shows both in Los Angeles and Glendale, in addition to being with a road show for some time. Miss Crisman toured extensively throughout the east. She is a very clever girl with a pleasing personality who will no doubt be one of the "hits" of the show given by the Shrine Club at the T. D. & L. Theatre Thursday afternoon and evening.

School Dirt Flies and It's 'Pay Dirt'

They began work on the great new High School on Monday and the dirt is flying fast—by September the stately building will stand, a monument to Glendale's civic progress.

No finer "pay dirt" than money invested in education.

Only a block away, Eagle Glen Heights, the beautiful foothill home subdivision, is fast building, too—the ideal home tract for families with children of school age. If you want YOUR home there, you can't afford to delay a moment, for only a few choice lots are unsold. From $2,500—on wonderfully easy terms.

Right at the door of both High and Grammar schools—transportation, stores, every convenience handy.

Rich "pay dirt" if you invest NOW, for home sites are scarce out East Broadway now, and by September they'll be 'way out of sight in price.

STORIES OF THE CAPITOL TOLD IN BRIEF

WASHINGTON, Feb. 7.—The record for usefulness is claimed by Senator McKinley, Illinois, for a negro who has been for years in the senator's employ. This man is McKinley's chauffeur. When he isn't chauffeuring, he is McKinley's golf caddy, and when he isn't doing either, he operates an elevator in the senate office building.

Speaking of elevator operators, one of those on duty at the capitol wears the leather medal these days for what he did to Senator Lodge, republican leader, oldest man in point of service in the senate, and one whose venerable figure is familiar to everybody who has been around the capitol any length of time. Lodge got aboard this man's elevator the other day. At the next floor, a number of other senators got in.

"Subway," they said, desiring to go to the underground corridor connecting the capitol with the senate office building. It is a rule that when senators and common mortals are aboard, the elevator shall first take the senators to their floor.

"Street floor," said Lodge.

The operator took the car straight down to the subway.

"I said first floor," said Lodge, as they shot by.

"Can't stop," said the operator.

"I've got some senators aboard."

One of the chief duties of secretaries to senators and house members is to keep out callers who would waste the time of the distinguished legislators. It has therefore become second nature to say that the senator or representative is not in, when such a caller shows up. It is one of those diplomatic evasions well known and generally accepted in Washington.

But the other day a secretary who retains some vestige of the New England conscience which she brought to Washington, mused quizzically:

"I wonder, now, if when some of us apply at the pearly gates, we will be told that St. Peter is not in."

Recent elections have brought into the senate numbers of men who stand out from the usual senatorial pattern, because they are so unlike what the senate has come to expect its members to be. But not in a long time has the senate seen equalled the one who, the other night, appeared at a formal function attired in a formal evening dress and wearing a pair of broadtoed, very decidedly tan shoes. What is more, he declined for any and every reason to go home and change them, and as a result, one semi-official function was nearly ruined.

DANCING WON IN N. D.

BISMARCK, N. D., Feb. 7.—North Dakota, pioneer prohibition state, the home of blue laws which forbid the sale of cigarettes and smoking in dining rooms used by women, gave dancing the decision by just a shade. The test came in the legislature when a measure for bidding the use of public schools for dancing was introduced. Letters to lawmakers from constituents were about equally divided. The two women legislators stood on opposite sides, and the measure was killed by a margin of 12, the count being 60 to 48.

MEXICO CITY.—Rotary clubs are being formed in this country and that organization is growing rapidly. Besides a strong organization in this city, there are strong organizations in several important cities.

Little Vanderbilt Heirs at Play at Palm Beach

Some day these little sons of Mrs. Raymond T. Baker, formerly Mrs. Alfred G. Vanderbilt, will be millionaires. Now they are just youngsters and do what other kids do. This photograph was taken at Palm Beach, Fla. They are Alfred and George Vanderbilt. George is on top.

WHITE BEAR IS HEAP BOSS CHIEF

BISMARCK, N. D., Feb. 7.—Fort Yates, hallowed by Indian lore, on the Missouri, remains the seat of government of Sioux county, N. D. The 1923 battle of the regular biennial fight to move the county seat to a railroad town was lost again. It has been an issue in every election and before every legislature for years.

Victors give credit to White Bear, chief, who boasts his Sioux blood "has no foreign taint" and honors Fort Yates, traditional battle ground of the northern and southern Indians, the spot where the Sioux smoked the peace pipe with the Whites, the vicinity in which lived Custer's deadly foe, Sitting Bull, and the present home of Red Tomahawk, who smoked the peace pipe with Marshal Foch before christening the great general by the Sioux name for "Charging Thunder."

The seventy-year-old lobbyist with his interpreter and wearing trousers beaded with three stars, one each for two sons and adopted son who served in the world war, was a picturesque figure in the capitol where he had come to champion Fort Yates.

Back on the farm his squaw was waiting for results. White Bear became visibly enthused when the interpreter told him the United Press representative wanted to know if his wife voted. She never failed to use her franchise and was first at the polls when the county seat was an issue, he said.

HEREDITY IN INSANITY

By H. ADDINGTON BRUCE

Author of "The Riddle of Personality," "Self-Development," Etc. (Copyright, 1923, by The Associated Newspapers)

The vexing problem as to whether insanity is or is not inheritable—a problem of anxious concern to many people—is discussed anew in Stewart Paton's recently published "Signs of Sanity." In opening his discussion Dr. Paton rightly calls attention to the often forgotten fact that soundness of thinking depends not only on organic integrity of the brain but also to a considerable extent on the state of other bodily organs.

These other organs—and more particularly the glands of internal secretion—by affecting the quality of the blood supplied to the brain may profoundly influence its action for good or for ill. If they are diseased, or if for any reason they function poorly, irrational thinking may be the result.

Now, it is well established that tendencies to disease of this or that organ may be transmitted by heredity from generation to generation. In this way we have families of tubercular tendencies, families with a tendency to kidney disease, families tending to overfunctioning of the thyroid gland, and so forth.

In such families there may be an inherited concurrent tendency to some degree of enfeeblement or abnormality of brain action. So that, altogether apart from the question of any direct inheritance of tendencies to mental breakdown, there can be no doubt that, as Dr. Paton expresses it:

"Heredity has a great deal to do with the capacity for forming the good adjustments in living we call sanity and the poor ones recognized as insanity."

On the other hand, it is of the utmost importance to appreciate that there is a vast difference between inheriting a tendency to some disease and inheriting the disease itself. The former is a well-established fact; the latter, as regards both insanity and insanity-provoking diseases, is effectually disestablished.

People do not inherit insanity—or tuberculosis, kidney disease, or hyperthyroidism—as they inherit light hair or blue eyes. The inheritance at worst is of a brain, lungs, kidneys or glands so organized that, given certain environmental conditions or modes of living, disease of the brain, lungs, kidneys or glands will in all likelihood follow.

By avoiding the disease-producing conditions and modes of living the inherited tendency may be definitely frustrated. The difficulty, of course, is to know just what conditions in the environment, just what modes of living, should be avoided.

But this is no longer the difficulty it was in the days before our modern era of medical research and experimentation. Any really competent physician can outline a living program calculated to nip in the bud unfavorable inherited tendencies, whether of mind or body.

And, for that matter, health manuals, simply written handbooks, are available at little cost, books lucidly giving advice precious to all of us, and doubly precious to those who have reason to fear that they are menaced by an inherited disease-tendency, whether to insanity or to some malady which may indirectly contribute to mental weakening.

WESTERN RANGE REPORTS ARE FAVORABLE

LINCOLN, Neb., Feb. 7.—Pastures and range conditions continue favorable in the Nebraska sand hills. Local shortages of feed are reported from a few counties outside of the sand hills. Condition of cattle is reported as 94 per cent of normal, being satisfactory, due to favorable winter and plenty of feed in most counties.

These are the leading points in the January report of the Division of Crop and Live Stock Estimates. The pastures in the sand hills are fully normal, but as conditions are less favorable in other western sections, the average condition for the state is 94 percent of normal. The losses of cattle in the pasture and range sections of Nebraska were lighter than in any of the other western states, being 2.6 per cent loss for the year. Losses in other states range from this to 10 per cent.

The condition of cattle in these 17 states averaged 90 per cent on January 1, compared to 89 per cent on December 1. Sheep averaged 95 per cent January 1, against 93 per cent the previous month.

A child asked what polygamy was. "It means having more than one wife," said her mother.

"And what is polyandry?"

"That means having more than one husband."

"Then what is marriage?" asked the child.

"That," said the mother, "is monotony."

Giving Johnny Wilson a Fighting Chance

By HENRY L. FARRELL
United Press Sports Editor

NEW YORK, Feb. 7.—Beyond showing twice that he is the champion of Mike O'Dowd, Johnny Wilson hasn't done a thing in two years.

Johnny failed to convince the New York boxing commission he was the world's middleweight champion and he has had a tough time making anyone believe he could even fight.

World ring titles usually bring fortunes and luck in great gobs, but when Wilson stumbled into the middleweight regalia he got his feet all tangled up and he is still down.

He has been under suspension so long by the New York commission that a change of heart is being felt in the official circle and it is understood that he will soon be allowed to go back to his business.

The New York commissioners should be commended for symptoms of giving Wilson a square deal, but after looking over the situation it begins to appear that the commission is being nice to Wilson just to give him a harder sock.

When Wilson does go back to work he will find so few middleweights who can draw a dime at the door that he will have to start associating with the light heavyweights.

And what a nice congenial bunch of boys he will find hanging around in that class with a sock ready for him—Greb, Gibbons, Tunney, Loughran and a few others.

Wilson should have been reinstated many months ago. He has been under suspension for alleged violation of a rule that other champions failed to observe and have escaped without even notice.

As long as Wilson is not permitted to earn a living, Harry Greb should not be permitted to box in New York.

Wilson was suspended because he failed to accept the challenge of Greb. When Greb was challenged he ignored it because he did not want to make the weight in the class.

Greb was reinstated after serving a few weeks, but Wilson is "still on the ground."

If Wilson is to be made the goat of the "champions must defend their titles every six months," Leonard, Lynch and Dempsey ought to get the same dose.

Dempsey's talk that he has no one to fight, that he is a battling king with no more worlds to conquer, is the truth, if Harry Wills, Tommy Gibbons, Jess Willard, Bill Brennan and a couple of others are not considered as being in the world.

Dempsey, however, may not be afraid to step into the ring, but Joe Lynch is getting tired about his shadow and Benny Leonard is suffering chills in his shoes.

Dempsey will go into the ring if he can get $500,000 from some weak-minded promoter and the other pair want almost as much to defend their titles.

MARKED PROGRESS IN SAVING OF FORESTS

WASHINGTON, Feb. 7.—Marked progress is being made in the program of preserving and adding to the national forests of the east, the National Forest Reservation Commission of the agricultural department, stated in a report of its ten years of labor.

More than 200,000,000 acres of cut-over waste and unproductive forest land in the east offers a vast problem, which can only be solved by local and state co-operation with the government, the commission stated. This land must be made to produce again, or the east will in a comparatively short time find its forest resources exhausted, the commission warns.

Over 2,000,000 acres have already been acquired by purchase for forests in eleven eastern states during the ten years that the commission has functioned. Of this area 440,000 acres are in the White Mountains, 74,000 in northeastern Pennsylvania, and 1,640,000 in the southern Appalachians and the Ozarks.

The report calls attention to the value of these forests for recreation and the extensive work that is being made of them by tourists. An additional use to which these Federal areas are put is for breeding wild game. There are now 10,000 white-tail deer on the White Mountain National Forest and 2,000 on the Pisgah; elk have been placed on several forests and buffalo on one. On the Shenandoah National Forest in Virginia and West Virginia more than 30 bears were killed during the past season. Many of the streams have been stocked with fish.

The report cites the continued decline in the cut of Eastern timber, a billion feet having been shipped to the Atlantic Coast from the Pacific last year. As the Eastern timber is cut there is an enormous and unproductive forest land, the total area of which now amounts to more than 200 million acres. The means employed by state, federal and private agencies for making this land again productive are regarded as being entirely inadequate.

The greater portion of the forest area of the country is in the eastern states, where there are 300,000,000 acres of forest and potentially forest lands. When the exhaustion of the Pacific Coast timber takes place, the east will be entirely dependent upon the timber which is grown upon its present cut-over lands. While in the opinion of the commission the present area of the eastern national forests is too small to contribute materially to the timber supply, it is believed that one of the most substantial contributions which the eastern national forests are at present making and will continue to make towards assuring a future timber supply is their value as demonstration forests in directing the efforts of private owners.

Establishment of forests in states in which there are no forests at the present time, such as Ohio, Kentucky, Illinois, Vermont, Missouri, Oklahoma, Texas, Louisiana, Mississippi and the lake states was urged.

The commission urges in its report that appropriations be resumed on their pre-war basis, in order that the purchase of land for national forests may be extended to other eastern states.

At an average price of $4.45 per acre the commission has authorized the purchase of 68,566 acres of land for eastern national forests. This increases the total acreage to more than 2,200,000 located in twelve national forests in eleven states from Maine to Arkansas.

Of this purchase of 29,502 acres will be added to the Allegheny National Forest in Warren, Elk, Forest, and McKean counties, Pa., on the headwaters of the Allegheny river—one of the sources of the Pittsburgh flood waters. This is burned-over, cut-over, or second growth timberland, and includes some merchantable timber admirably serving the purpose of soil protection and flood water control. The average price is $1.02 per acre.

In eastern Tennessee the Unaka Forest is increased by 17,670 acres in Sullivan, Cocke and Greene counties—some of it well timbered, but most of it cut-over and burned. West Virginia gets 8,520 acres in Pocahontas and Hardy counties; and Virginia 8,847 acres in Augusta, Shenandoah, Rockbridge and Bedford counties.

Two thousand one hundred and seventy-six acres will be purchased in Burke, Watauga and Avery counties, North Carolina; 1425 acres in Winston and Lawrence counties, together with 122 acres in Grafton county, New Hampshire.

A meek-looking individual with a bandage round his brow, a black eye, and a long scratch down his cheek, walked into a newspaper office.

"You have some professional humorists working on your linotype machines?" he asked the editor.

The editor's reply was a haughty stare.

"Do you read your own paper?" went on the small, inquiring voice.

"Occasionally."

"Did you read my poem entitled, 'To Cynthia, in your last issue?'"

"Er—I'm afraid—"

"I thought not. In that poem I wrote a line that read: 'I love you better than I love my life.'"

"Yes? A very neat line."

"And one of your linotype operators put it: 'I love you better than I love my wife.' I'm a married man, and my wife read it. And—"

and—well, look at my face!"

Music may be the food of love, but after marriage there is need of liver and bacon.

MASSACHUSETTS BAY COLONY

was settled by a thousand Puritans in 1630. By 1640 the colony had increased to 25,000 or 30,000 persons driven out of England by the tyranny of Charles I and the persecutions of Archbishop Laud of Canterbury.

While it is all right for a woman to help her husband, many a girl starts early by helping her sweetheart to propose.

CYRUS

organized the Persian tribes north-east of the Persian Gulf into an empire. Then within a very few years he conquered Lydia, the kingdom of Croesus (famed for his prodigious wealth) in Asia Minor; along the Mediterranean; Babylon; Cyrus died in 528 B. C. Three years later his son, Cambyses, conquered Egypt.

Don't forget that it is always the bottom dollar that counts.

AN INTERESTING COMPARISON

Value of soda and appliances, ice cream, confections, and chewing gum manufactured in the United States in 1919 (figures based on factory values and does not include wholesaler's profits, nor retailers) is $834,000,000. In 1921 the expenditures for national defense were $869,000,000 (army and navy).

Truths in Epigram

The nearer one approaches to great persons, the more one sees they are but men. Rarely are they great in the eyes of their valets.—La Bruyere.

Other men live to eat but I eat to live.—Socrates.

The evening of life brings with it its lamps.—M. Joubert.

The true work of art is but a shadow of the divine perfection.—Michael Angelo.

THE WORK OF PASTEUR

It would be idle to attempt to discount the work of Pasteur, the 100th anniversary of whose birth has just been celebrated. The occasion in many places was devoted largely to praise of Pasteur's achievements. More than any other individual he was responsible for the germ theory of disease. This no longer is scouted by scientists. It is true that some who have accepted it go to an extreme of manifest absurdity. They conceive dangers where none exists. To accept their views would be to declare that nothing eaten or touched by mortal was fit to be eaten or touched. They find a deadly contagion in the hand clasp. They discern, in their mind's eye, the fatal microbe ready to leap from every object with which they come in contact. They make themselves miserable, as they make others very tired. Nevertheless the germ theory is established.

Pasteur did magnificent work in relation to devising means to overcome the venom of the cobra; in conquering diphtheria, and in other fields. He was striving for the good of humanity, and he accomplished much. Many think of him only in relation to rabies, the one among many subjects of interest to him, and not regarded by himself as near first in importance. Concerning the effectiveness of Pasteur treatment for rabies there exists much doubt. Probably this is owing to a lack of faith in the existence of the disease as a reality. In some countries the treatment is not favored, and in a few is actually forbidden.

Desirability of Pasteurization of milk also is a mooted question. While one school will contend that raw milk should not be used, another school, equally respectable, holds that raw milk is rendered unfit for use by being Pasteurized. It is unfortunate that verdict acceptable to all, by reason of proven merit, has not been reached.

But the fact of uncertainty, as to details in a few respects, detracts nothing from the fame of the great Frenchman.

AMERICAN UNIVERSITIES

In this column a few days ago was a statement regarding the universities and colleges of California. It had to do not only with their value and standing, but touched upon the necessity for liberal support in the form of benefactions. Unconsciously the assertions then made were fitting with nicety into the spirit of an address by Dr. Jose M. Galvez of Chile, just now exchange professor at Berlin university. Dr. Galvez extolled American universities in high terms. He explained how they fulfill a double function in imparting knowledge and developing the student character. He laid stress upon the fact that individuality is encouraged, personal inclinations taken into consideration and opportunity provided for students to become acquainted with the duties of citizenship.

As Dr. Galvez last year was exchange professor at the University of Southern California, and visited other state institutions, absorbing through contact with students and instructors the very spirit of them, it is fair to assume that his opinion is based in large measure on observations made here. Thus his praise accentuates the wisdom of supporting schools of such character.

Dr. Galvez, representing a South American culture concerning which the people of the north are strangely uninformed, is a man of remarkable attainment. He spoke in perfect English to classes here. He is equally at ease in use of French. He is giving lectures in German. The basis of his training was laid in his own country, and it was expanded by courses in Europe. Few educators could be named to whose opinion on scholastic matters greater weight could be attached.

REGULATING AIR SPACES

The air, once regarded chiefly as something to be breathed, and free to all, is coming under the dominion of man, in part. The wind still "bloweth where it listeth," but man finds it necessary to specify what the wind shall carry along with it. Two things have led to present conditions. One is aerial transport, and the other the radio. These new functions have become so important that regulations must be imposed.

At times the government may assume absolute charge of the entire air space, as in emergency it would allot the land to its several uses. Radio operations will be caused to conform to government rule. Flyers will have a code drawn up for their guidance, and to this will be obliged to adhere or pay severe penalty. The object of course is public safety. So far as possible, business conducted along the air lanes will be subject to the restrictions that apply to commerce below. There will be safeguards against accident, disease and crime. By a bill now pending, immigration laws, customs regulations and statutes governing the public health will be applicable to aircraft arriving from outside the United States.

The still novel but important activity will be under charge of the department of commerce, and bureau of specialists.

Regulation of air traffic becomes a fact. That there is nothing new under the sun passes into the realm of fiction.

THE HELPLESS JURY MAJORITY

A resident of Glendale has twice been tried for the offense of refusing admission to a policeman who sought to enter his house at night. It is stated that the citizen threatened to defend his domicile with a pistol if necessary. Also that the policeman had no warrant, and no ground for making a specific charge. In the first trial only three jurors voted for conviction. In the second trial eleven voted for acquittal.

As this left the matter, another trial remained necessary. This means more expense, and doubtless wholly useless expense, for it is not reasonable to suppose a third jury could be found to override the conclusions of the first two.

Trying cases in the public prints is, as a rule, to be avoided. In relation to this particular accusation, it may be said, however, that the average citizen would be likely to regard the policeman as intruding without right. The demand of a stranger to be admitted to a private house at night naturally would be resented. The verbal assurance that the stranger was clothed with police authority could not be very impressive, particularly to one unaware of any conduct demanding police attention. Any rogue may thump the door at midnight, assuming whatever role may please him, but the individual of even moderate caution would warn him away.

If the police desire to vindicate their right to enter a house without warrant, they might as well give up. No jury is going to accord a privilege so distinctly forbidden by the constitution.

Lenine doubtless is a powerful and almost absolute figure in Russia, but mostly his potency wanes and vanishes at the border. It is no longer possible for him to create even mild interest through the announcement that he is dead again, once more stricken with fatal illness, or thrust anew into prison by his fellow patriot, Trotzky.

THE HERETIC

By DR. FRANK CRANE

Dr. Percy Stickney Grant, the rector of an Episcopal church in New York City, has been preaching beliefs of such a nature that Bishop Manning has summoned him to recant or resign.

On the grounds that an Episcopal clergyman has no right to preach from his pulpit doctrines inconsistent with the creed of the church.

Dr. Grant seems to be getting in line with the noble army of heretics.

The world undoubtedly owes a great debt to the organized church, and possibly an equal debt to the unorganized heretic.

John Wesley was considered heretical by the established church of his time; yet to him is due the world-wide movement of Methodism.

Luther was a heretic, and was the founder of Protestantism.

Even Jesus of Nazareth was considered to be teaching doctrines contrary to the organized Judaism of His day and was driven out.

Socrates was so dangerous a heretic that the Athenians poisoned him.

As to the merits of the controversy between Dr. Grant and his church, we are not qualified to speak with authority.

Upon the general aspect of the matter, however, it may be remarked that it is rather a curious thing that the churchman says to the obnoxious outsider: "If you don't think the church is right or progressive enough, why don't you come into it and make it better?" And if the outsider comes in and begins to express himself too freely, it is said to him: "If you cannot conform to the doctrines of the church, why don't you get out?"

Altogether, the heretic's lot does not seem to be a happy one.

Another point that seems to be missed in the general discussion is that neither the Episcopal church nor most other churches were instituted to do good to the human race any way they can. They were instituted to do good in just one way; that is, by preaching a certain set of doctrines. Of course, it is difficult for one who is anxious to do good with his church.

There is a certain amount of efficiency to be achieved by organization, and there is also a certain amount of efficiency that is lost by having an organization.

The whole case is full of paradoxes. For instance, people say the churches are empty because ministers are not sincere, but have to preach exactly what they are told; and then when a minister shows that he is sincere and preaches exactly what he believes the church itself makes it too hot for him.

One thing remains quite sure, that such a man as Dr. Grant, with his undoubted sincerity, spirit and intelligence, is going to play the man, and do what good he can in the world, whether in the church or out of it. For he has that kind of faith which Dr. Fagnani quotes Kirsopp Lake as defining to be "No belief in spite of evidence, but life in scorn of consequence."

Perhaps Dr. Grant has been reading Thoreau, and came across the two following quotations: "Do what you love. Know your own bone; know at it; bury it; unearth it; know at it still."

And again: "When you travel to the Celestial City, carry no letters of introduction. When you knock, ask to see God—none of the servants."

THE RIGHT WORD

By W. CURTIS NICHOLSON

QUESTIONS

"Questionnaire"

To Ethel Greenberg: According to the New Standard Dictionary the pronunciation of questionnaire is as follows: key-on-yar' (e as in get; o as in not; a as in fare). The word is new in our vocabulary, and if it is to stay why should it not be Americanized or Anglicized into an American or English pronunciation, the first part being pronounced as question is pronounced and the latter part as air? The corresponding word in English is questionnaire.

Improving a Sentence

M. K.: "Is the following sentence correct: 'Don't wait until no more seats are left?' If correct is it awkward? How can it be improved?"

Answer: Don't wait until there are no more good seats. Don't wait until all the good seats are sold.

"Harris's" or "Harris'?"

To Tom Brennan: The possessive of Harris is either Harris's or Harris', depending on the word that follows. If by using Harris's before a word beginning with "s" you get an unpleasant hissing sound, use Harris' as Harris' shop. Harris's shop may sound better and be more easily pronounced.

"What" and "Which?"

To R. F. Smith: Either what or which is correct in the following sentence: What (which) girl do you mean? What is more comprehensive than which, what implying a large number of girls among which one is to be indicated and which restricting the number to a known few.

"Oats" or "Oat?"

To Anna F. Winters: "Oats" appears to be the correct word of all the grain crops and "Oat" is looking good. Both are correct as far as the verbs "appear" and "is" are concerned. In each except it is not the intention to discuss the grain as plural, but as a crop (singular).

THE LISTENING POST

By JAMES W. FOLEY

The other day in this Listening Post, there was talk of the radio.

Human voices traveling through space at the speed of 180,000 miles a second.

To Chicago in one-ninetyth of a second.

Try to approximate one-ninetyth of a second.

Try to tick ninety times while the old clock ticks once.

Then you will learn that one-ninetyth of a second is a very short time.

Almost too short to compute.

To the Hawaiian islands in the same ninetyth of a second.

Around the world in a seventh of a second.

Pretty fast traveling.

Proving that the electro magnetic waves are wasting no time.

Pretty speedy messengers they are.

But the heart of the talk about the radio was not so much its uncanniness as its utility in bringing human beings together.

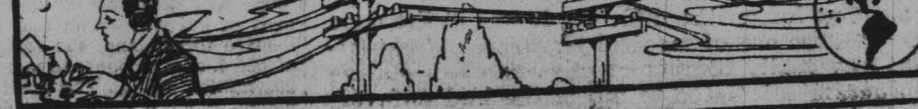

In making friends and acquaintances and neighbors of all us.

For the neighbor used to be the man to whom we could talk over the back fence.

And now we can talk to all of the United States over the back fence.

So the radio makes us neighbors.

Montana sits up and listens to Los Angeles. And so does Honolulu.

Songs of the Poets

"Dinna Ask Me"—By John Dunlop (1755-1820)

O dinna ask me gin I lo'e ye:
Troth, I daurna tell!
Dinna ask me gin I lo'e ye—
Ask it o' yersel'.

O, dinna look sae sair at me,
For well ye ken me true;
O, gin ye look sae sair at me,
I daurna look at you.

When ye gang to yon braw, braw town,
And bonnier lasses see,
O, dinna, Jamie, look at them,
Lest ye should mind na me.

For I could never bide the lass
That ye'd lo'e mair than me;
And O, I'm sure my heart wad brak,
Gin ye'd prove fause to me!

THE REWARD OF VALOR

By ESTELLE LAWTON LINDSEY

More people love a fight than love a fighter.

The result is that a fighter must give a good account of himself or take the count to the cheers of the mob that enjoys the show. So the wise man who goes into a fight fights to a finish. To illustrate the mob psychology in the matter of courage read a dispatch that has just come from Matamoros, Mexico.

Matamoros has a great bull ring and a blood thirsty population which patronizes it. In ten years no bull has entered the Plaza de Toros and come out alive. Last week, however, a snorting, charging, carnivorous steer broke the record. The crowd who had come to see a fight witnessed a slaughter, and the bull did the work. Hurray for the bull. He did not seek the scrap; but when it came he did his bit.

The toreros had been killing off stock for some time when the gates to the arena swung open and in charged 1800 pounds of red streaked lightning. The terrible horns caught the matador and flung him mangled across the huge back. Two picadors followed and the crowd began to cry for the bull's life—he was too dangerous to live.

But nobody could kill him; he had a strict monopoly on the merriment business. A banderillo followed his co-workers to the hospital and the bull continued to charge. When he had cleaned out the arena he looked about for something else to sacrifice on the altar of amusement. Seeing nothing but the spectators he jumped the six-foot stockade and charged the mob.

And the mob, with their lives in the balance, went wild with admiration for bovine valor.

Even as they broke for cover men shouted: "Save him. Save him. He is too brave to die."

And they saved him. He was finally rounded up and gently returned to his pastures. There he will be permitted to live his life through in peace and plenty.

But isn't the human heart a strange instrument? Resistance that is half hearted brings danger and condemnation; but it's "thumbs up" for the fearless, yes, even from those into whose souls they have put the fear of doing evil. Long live the bull of Matamoros.

EASTERN POINT OF VIEW

LABOR REPUDIATES REDS

[Atlanta Constitution]

The American Federation of Labor has flatly rejected an invitation of the International Federation of Trades Unions to participate in an "anti-war" conference to be held at The Hague.

The main expressed purpose of the conference is to promote a proposition for co-operation of organized labor throughout the world to oppose and obstruct any military movements of preparations in the event of war.

"Renunciation of national entities" and resort to a general strike to obstruct national war activities are foremost among the policies to which the International Federation is committed; and it demands of all who are affiliated with it that they unite with each other to obstruct war measures in their own country, irrespective of whether such measures are of an offensive or of a defensive character.

Of course, the American Federation of Labor would enter into no such a compact, nor lend its sanction to a movement of that kind.

There are men within the organization who are radical and who do not measure up to the highest ideals of American citizenship, no doubt.

The same is true, however, of organized religion and of organized business.

But, by and large, the members of the American Federation of Labor are American citizens first, inspired by the spirit of patriotism and of loyalty to the flag, and there is no visible evidence that any large number of them have been misled by the spurious promises of internationalism, as put forth by the Bolsheviks and the followers of the red flag in other countries.

It was only to be expected, therefore, that the executive directors of the federation would repudiate such a flagrantly un-American proposal as that to which the internationalism radicals asked them to commit themselves and their fellow organized workers in this country.

And it is gratifying to the American people that they have measured up to expectations upon this occasion.

COMMENT ON DAY'S NEWS

By HENRY JAMES

Every man, if a truism quite so trite is permissible, has a right to his opinion; even to expression of it in lawful terms. The opinion is likely to be received more kindly, however, if it seems to have the aspect of reasonableness. When for example, its proponent has for a slogan the exclamatory avowal "millions now living will never die" it is not to be assumed that he undertakes to appeal to normal intelligence. His intention must be to set up a state of mind to which a slogan so baseless and silly could appear to have meaning and weight.

One who sails the seas of oratory with such slogan on his banner talks also of a golden age to come. Out of the present terrors he expects to observe "a day of joy and gladness" dawn, probably in full-orbed splendor, to be greatly appreciated by the millions whom the death angel is scheduled to overlook.

There is human hope, as there is poignant yearning, for the better day. That the present carnival of crime, individual and national, is definitely and necessarily a prelude to that day, no promise exists, and no prospect cheers.

Calling the present turmoil the death throes of Satan's empire, may be comforting to the unthinking. It may render enthusiastic an audience hypnotized. But it happens to be without meaning.

It is stated that this season some distinguished families have spent as much as half a million in presenting their daughters to society. Old Pharaoh Tutenkhamen was reckless with his gold, too. Doubtless, however, he stipulated that he should get value received for what he spent.

Scientists are now working on a radio for use in coal mines. They hope to perfect it so that miners far in the depths, and even behind solid barriers, may communicate with the surface. Thus the radio would find more serious use than the purveying of ordinary converse. Perfection of such a radio would add a notable triumph to the long and beneficent list that genius has achieved.

Police in some cities have been warned that they can't belong to the Ku Klux and remain on the job. Certainly they should not be permitted to remain.

A Ku Klux policeman, in failing to arrest himself, would be guilty of dereliction of duty.

It hardly is to be assumed that the teachings of Nietzsche have had much direct influence in this country, where the works of the crazy philosopher are comparatively little known. Nevertheless one of the vicious sentiments, of the many such he expressed, seems to have been adopted as a rule by many now bidding for police attention.

"Pangs of conscience are indecent," Nietzsche wrote. False doctrine, of course, issuing from a mind decadent. Individualism, or kill, and don't care. They have accepted the Nietzschean philosophy perhaps without ever having heard of the evil influence which, living, he was, and dead, still is.

A noble fight that, the one city councilmen are making on the birds that flock to adornment of Pershing square in Los Angeles. Somebody has said that these birds carry germs. If so they get them from the bench loafers, and carry them away.

Isadora Duncan has sailed for Russia. She does not love America any more. So she takes her husband, said to be source of her inspiration, and of her occasional black eye, and goes back to the bosom, so to speak, of bolshevism. According to the dancer, the strong drink of America is not all that it should be anyhow, so her flight may be due to thirst as well as pique.

Sunday an automobile became stalled on the heavy grade leading to Devil's Gate dam, the supply of gasoline having been exhausted. The delay occasioned to other machines caused the unlucky driver to be sworn at and scowled at fiercely. It was necessary for him to walk a mile at least to get a can of gasoline, and to walk back, none proffering him a ride with his burden, and one ignoring his direct request.

Meanwhile an invalid woman, with another woman, elderly and white-haired, and a small and distressed looking boy, sat in the stalled machine. Not a single driver asked what was the matter, not one said "May I be of assistance?" Hundreds of drivers passed. Those going in one direction grinned broadly, and those going the other cursed audibly at the annoyance of having to turn out.

Gallantry is not dead, of course, but it shows signs of coma. Another drug addict has got out of his bonds by suicide. So it seems that a desperate determination can break the habit.

If police officers and other busybodies would cease to trouble the Phillips woman and "Little Phil" Alguin, the pair unmolested might do some effective team work.

Enthusiasm of real estate dealers is commendable in the main, and they have admirable bargains to offer. However, it is going too far when they crowd the highways to the impeding of traffic, and bawl their wares by megaphone.

WATCHING THE PARADE

By JOHN PILGRIM

Young Tarbox came in looking for a job this morning. Yesterday I would have given him one, all hung about with three gay cheers. He is good looking, well dressed and full of information and pep. But when a man is out of a job the barometer falls.

"What's the trouble?" I asked. "How'd you lose out?"

"I'll tell you, Mr. Pilgrim," he said earnestly. "I have been very shabbily treated."

He was head of a department at the Corrugated Pickle Works and yesterday old Mr. Corrugated Pickle himself was in the office. The old man wanted to find out just what had happened to a lost shipment and young Tarbox happened in.

"Go get," said the old man. "Find out about this and let me know."

Tarbox sent the clerk whose job it is to know about shipments, but the clerk knew nothing about it. Then the old man got up on his ear. He wanted to know why Tarbox had not attended to this job himself.

"That isn't my work, sir," said the young man, genially, but with decision.

So the old man fired him. Old Corrugated Pickle has an idea that no man who is above his work is worth hiring. When he tells a man to do a thing he wants that man to do it and no one else. What's more, he expects his men to be on the lookout for jobs. The buck-passer lasts with him about as long as a frankfurter at Coney Island.

"I was employed as an expert on foreign trade," said Young Tarbox, pale and proud. "And the old man wanted to make a trace clerk out of me."

"Not employed, boy," I said. "Hired. There's a difference." We do not need an expert on foreign trade at our shop. If we did, we'd pick one who could also wheel a truck if that happened to be the job nearest at hand.

VODKA FACTORIES FLOURISH IN RUSSIA

MOSCOW.—(By Mail to United Press).—Petrograd is trying to come back.

A number of factories are being reopened in the former capital of the old Russia. These are largely for the manufacture of vodka, which is booze of 40 horsepower. The Russian drink is 40 percent alcohol and has some kind of a kick.

The newly formed spirit trust is building 10 factories at Petrograd of which six are practically completed and two of them are turning out vodka.

Since Russia decided to be wet again, the manufacture of vodka is being resumed on a big scale. The thirty Russians have no cause to be worried over the supply, for in addition to the stored liquor being released, 100 factories are making vodka out of potatoes, grain and sugar.

Under the Czaristic regime a certain amount of the revenues of the sale of vodka was devoted to education of the people as to the bad influences of the vodka.

The present regime, too, intends to devote a certain amount for the education of the people for which purpose a certain sum will be handed over to the department of education.

HAIR, DRESSED, DRESSES THE WOMAN

By HEDDA HOYT
Fashion Editor of the United Press
(Written for the United Press)

NEW YORK, N. Y., Feb. 7.—There are ways of lessening facial defects and of magnifying the best features of the face by means of appropriate hats and hair-does.

Many women make the mistake of buying the reigning hat style regardless of its becomingness to them. The off-the-face type of hat which has been more or less in vogue for several seasons has been the ruin of so many women. The slender faced woman is absolutely lost in a hat that turns upwards from her small narrow face. She needs a moderately wide hat that casts soft shadows over her face, a hat of the mushroom variety. The girl with the up-turned nose or with the large imperfect nose demands a hat with a wide front brim to minimize the imperfections of her profile.

How often we see a large woman with an over developed double chin and a large mouth, wearing one of those small turbans pulled low over her best features—her eyes! Not only does she hide the best part of her face, but she deliberately calls attention to the lower part of her face. She is of the type that would look better in a hat that turns slightly off the brow, leaving a soft fringe of hair to form a halo about her face. By wearing a wider hat she lessens the appearance of the width of her lower face.

The stout face can wear the hair more tightly confined than can the long slender featured face. That is one reason so many girls who were quite uninteresting-looking in long hair, blossomed out into such beauties after a permanently waved fluffy "bob." Uneven features demand that the hair be soft and fluffy about the face. Only the girl who is sure of her profile should attempt the plain tight hair-do.

In studying our weak and our strong points how many of us really pay attention to the minor things that go to make one a charming personality? I read recently that no woman could con-

WAIKIKI BEACH, Honolulu, Feb. 7.—It is worth the trip to watch the surf-board riders at this famed beach. There are only a few beaches in the world where surf-riding is possible. There is nothing more exhilarating or exciting than to watch these bronzed Hawaiians riding in upright on a narrow board at the rate of 35 miles an hour, from a distance of a mile.

It is most difficult to learn.

"It is an art," says Keahola, member of the United States Olympic team.

"It takes years to learn—some never learn it. It requires a wonderful sense of balance, strength, and a knowledge of the waves. You first paddle out about three-fourths of a mile. Paddling a board nine feet long out against the waves is difficult of itself.

"Then you whistle."

"What?"
"Yes, you must whistle for the waves. All Hawaiians do. Then a big wave will come and you dip your board so as to catch it, then jump up on the board, and away you slide all the way to shore."

Easy!

Pacific-Southwest Review

By D. H. SMITH
Manager Brand Boulevard Branch Pacific Southwest Trust and Savings Bank

D. H. Smith

In considering the various factors responsible for the unprecedented development in the Pacific Southwest during the past few years, and the possibility of future expansion, many overlook or minimize the effect of the completion and successful operation of the Panama Canal.

The canal has been particularly effective in the movement of commodities between the Pacific and Atlantic coasts. The records of the United States Shipping Board reveal rapid expansion in this trade until at the present time the coast to coast movement through the canal is at the rate of 3,500,000 tons annually, and is rapidly increasing.

This growth of the coast to coast canal traffic has been assisted by various economic conditions. Many American shipping concerns, newly organized during the war period, were unable to compete in the foreign trade when the depression came in the spring of 1920, but were able to take refuge in the canal trade which does not permit foreign competition, and to make satisfactory profits. But in the opinion of many, it was the nationwide railroad strike which gave the final impetus to the development of the ocean traffic through the canal. The paralyzing effect of the strike on overland transportation of goods gave the coast to coast ocean trade its opportunity of growth. Although the resulting strenuous competition has caused a lively rate war between the operating companies, additional vessels have been entering the trade, thus indicating that this branch of the shipping business is proving profitable even in the face of some adverse conditions.

The Pacific-Southwest has profited from the movement of commodities through the canal and the long haul entailed, justifies the construction of immense tankers for the traffic-ships, which carry as much as 140,000 barrels and which make the voyage at a cost per barrel sufficiently less to give California oil a special advantage in competition with oil shipped overland or from Mexico.

The agricultural community in particular will in the future profit by this canal coast to coast trade. The general impression at the time the canal was opened was that the tropical climate would make it impracticable to ship commodities of a perishable nature over that route. But recent rail developments, which caused Pacific Coast fruit shippers serious losses because of car shortage, directed attention to the canal for relief. It was found that refrigerator ships were able to carry perishable merchandise through the canal with safety, and the result has been an increasing volume of trade of this nature. Thousands of boxes of Southern California apples have been shipped through the canal to Atlantic ports, and it is anticipated that this success will be followed by the movement of a large part of next year's grape crop by the same route, with the possibility of other Pacific-Southwestern fruit crops following the lead.

MODERNIZING OF HOLY LAND PLANNED

WASHINGTON, Feb. 7.—The Holy Land is emerging from its inertia and developing into an important commercial center, Addison E. Southard, American consul at Jerusalem, reports to the department of commerce.

Plans are being perfected for the electrification of Palestine by raising the level of the Sea of Galilee and harnessing the River Jordan, Southard stated. This means an expenditure of $10,000,000.

The project calls for canalization of the Jordan valley from the Sea of Galilee to the Dead Sea, where irrigation is expected to produce great crops of dates, rice, cotton, flax and sugar cane.

Modernization of the Holy Land also calls for the building of 2,000 miles of motor highways, commercialization of the Bagdad-Cairo air route, the establishment of agricultural credit banks and other innovations, Southard stated.

DUMM AND DUMMER AGAINST COMPLEXION TESTS AT HARVARD ENTRANCE EXAMS

President Lowell Has Just Discovered Booker T. Washington, to Whom College Once Gave Honorary Degree, Was Black, Is Suspicion—Yale Not So Unfair

"I see Harvard is classifying students by the color chart system," remarked Senator O. Howe Dumm. "No student can get full privileges there unless he is the right shade."

"What are they specializing in there now, anyhow, education or tint?" asked Representative Dummer.

"I can't quite make out," returned Dumm. "All I know is that President Lowell has issued an order excluding Negro students from the freshman dormitories and has raised an awful rumpus. You know what a freshman dormitory is, I suppose."

"That's right," replied Dummer. "It's a place where the freshmen keep their flags, sofa pillows, tennis racquets, pipes, synthetic gin, chorus girls' slippers, and the signs stolen off surface cars."

"Well, heretofore, Harvard has allowed students to room on the campus, no matter whether they were dark or light, but she has now drawn the color line. This places Harvard on a par with Jack Dempsey. Only pink and white students are to be allowed in the freshman dormitories from now on."

"I get the idea," observed Dummer. "President Lowell is taking a firm stand for that schoolgirl complexion" you read so much about in the magazine advertisements."

"Exactly!" snapped Dumm. "That's how Harvard comes by the name 'Fair Harvard.'"

"Ain't no brunettes admitted?" asked Dummer.

"After a careful pigment test only. And I have it on reliable authority that Harvard students are terribly afraid of spending their summers at the shore resorts for fear they'll get a heavy tan and be barred as a couple of tones too dark for the entrance examinations," continued Dumm.

"I thought the civil war was fought to end the color line," said Dummer, looking a bit more stupid than usual.

"The more I look at it the more I think the Civil war was fought over the question of whether the north or south should have General Grant's cigar trade," said Dumm. "The world was supposedly fought to make the world safe for democracy. Democracy stepped out to lunch immediately after the peace treaty and I ain't seen nothing but hypocrisy since."

"Didn't Andrew Jefferson or Joseph Jackson or somebody say all men were created free and equal?" demanded Dummer.

"Certainly," returned Dumm. "All men are created free and equal. Trouble only comes when they try to prove it."

"If I remember correctly Harvard once gave an honorary degree to Booker T. Washington and the president of the university made such a gushing speech it ran all over the negro leader's vest," mused Dummer.

"Sure she did!" returned Dumm. "But it didn't mean a thing to anybody except Booker."

"You don't suppose Harvard is so backward that she's only just found out Booker T. was black?" asked Dummer.

"You never can tell. Some universities are certainly dumb these days. President Lowell is also reported as favoring discrimination against Jewish students. I even heard Henry Ford mentioned as the next Harvard president. And somebody told me Imperial Klegio Simmoas was to be the next Harvard football coach."

"I'm for Yale," declared Dummer suddenly. "She never bars anybody."

"You're nearly right," concluded Dumm. "But Yale does bar certain people."

"Who are they?"

"Any good football players and all efficient coaches," snapped Dumm.

Foley's Friendly Fancies

JAMES W. FOLEY

A SONG AT DUSK

Such little things, a laugh, a kiss, a flower;
A hand held fast, an earnestness of speech,
The recollection of one perfect hour,
And hearts of joy unfolded, each to each.

Such little things; somewhere in distant places
The first shy crocuses of earliest Spring;
The light of love on well-beloved faces,
The few sweet notes the cheery field larks sing.

Such little things; a whispered word and tender,
A baby's cry; a mother's hush and croon;
A Summer dawn that lights the sky with splendor,
Or the full glory of a harvest moon.

Such little things; a field of waving clover,
The Summer wind that plays among the grass;
A cottage that the roses climb up over,
The hail of friends upon the way who pass.

Such little things; but these the chiefest glory
Of life and living; and as day is gone,
We hold the pen and write of them the story
That Memory whispers as the night comes on.

PARIS DRUG BILL IS SIXTY MILLION

By JOHN O'BRIEN
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

PARIS, Feb. 7.—"Coke fiends" and other drug addicts spent approximately $60,000,000 in Paris alone last year—in pursuit of the elusive intoxication that brings madness and death in its train.

And the traffic is flourishing, in spite of redoubled police efforts and the passage last summer of a law prescribing banishment for five years from France on conviction and jail sentence for dealing in the prohibited "snow."

This estimate is based on official figures just issued by the Bureau of Judicial Research compiled for communication to the League of Nations, which is directing the international fight against the sale of drugs. During the year 1922 the "drug squad" of the Paris police department arrested 314 persons on charges of being engaged in the illicit traffic. In the same period they seized 106 pounds of opium, five francs a gram—and toll the 2½ pounds of hashisch, 50 pounds of cocaine, seven of morphine and three of heroin.

It is admitted by the police that the arrests do not amount to one in a thousand of the known dealers, so difficult is it to "catch them with the goods." A simple calculation gives the total of the year's business in poisonous drugs as something between $40,000,000 and $80,000,000.

Retailers of "coco," as it is called in Parisian argot, swarm in every quarter and in every walk of life. Their intermediaries are employers of clubs, cafe and restaurant waiters, manicures, pedicures, barbers, bath attendants, chauffeurs, soothsayers and fortune tellers. These are the unfortunate individuals who get taught. The "man higher up" may be arrested, but the police never find the "dope" on him.

There is a bar in Montmartre known to every habitue of the night life as the centre of the traffic for that quarter. There is another near the Arc de Triomphe and half a dozen in the Latin Quarter.

In these bars the retailers meet their intermediaries and give them instructions. The middlemen arrange as best they can. Sometimes the "coco" is placed between the pages of a business directory or a telephone book. All the seller has to do is to take the price—twenty-five francs a gram—and toll the "fiend" where he can get the stuff.

MEXICO CITY, Mexico, Feb. 7. Germans plan colonization in Mexico on a large scale, according to reports. Representatives of several German groups have already arrived here and it is said that many of the former royalty of Germany and central European countries will make their homes here.

A fair young lady, on her first visit to Scotland, was passing a few hours away by attempting to play the natural game of golf.

She was not very good, though her style was powerful. It was the fourth time she had attempted to drive, and for the fourth time the ball was undisturbed, and her driver slipped out of her hands and flew away over the furze bushes.

"If you keep on at that rate," remarked the caddie, "you will soon be champion of Scotland."

"Do you mean that?" she simpered in wonderment. "Aye," replied the caddie, "at throwing the hammer!"

"Mamma," said little Dorothy, who was looking at the pictures in a Sunday-school book, "how do the angels get their night gowns on over their wings?"

Have You Noticed How the "Ads" --Both Display and Classified--Are Increasing in the Glendale Press?

"THERE'S A REASON"

1st—The Glendale Daily Press has over 2,000 More Circulation than any other Paper Circulating in Glendale.

2nd—The Glendale Daily Press has a Progressive Policy. It is not controlled by any clique or set of men. It speaks straight from the shoulder. Its aim is to serve the best interests of the community without favoring any interests or individuals. In other words,

THE GLENDALE DAILY PRESS IS AN INDEPENDENT PROGRESSIVE NEWSPAPER WITH BACKBONE AND A DEFINITE POLICY

—which is expressed Daily in its editorial columns. It is forging ahead, because the people like it—they know it is watching their interests and will do all in its power to protect the welfare of Glendale.

NO GREEN GOODS HERE!

The Circulation of the Glendale Daily Press is operated upon the Little Merchants Plan, which insures a bona fide paid circulation, that is far ahead of the newspaper which allows its subscriptions to "run as long as you wish and pay when you will."

We believe that our advertising columns offer the best medium for presenting the message of Glendale merchants, because we reach the most people. We have editions for Eagle, Rock and Burbank. Three daily newspapers with an advertising rate that is not high enough for one daily paper.

Here are the sworn statements required by the government from both Glendale Daily Papers:

THE FACTS IN A NUTSHELL:

GLENDALE DAILY PRESS 4,985

SECOND NEWSPAPER 3,336

GLENDALE DAILY PRESS LEAD
OVER SECOND NEWSPAPER. 1,649

But, Dear Reader, since the statements were published in October, THE GLENDALE DAILY PRESS has added 715 READERS TO ITS LIST and its circulation now exceeds the sworn statement of the second paper by 2364. Growing some in three months, you say. Well, you're right. Watch us grow during 1923. Watch the advertising columns grow. Glendale has live, progressive merchants and they are using the advertising columns of the Glendale Daily Press to send their message to the people.
